Defect Description

On certain motorhomes, the cargo door lock actuators on the baggage doors are overheating. With the original wiring scheme, if the battery voltage dropped to below 9.5VDC, an actuator circuit back feed could occur through the standard (non-networked) Tri/Mark Keyless Entry Module and cause the door actuator to chatter. If the actuator chatter lasted for a long enough duration, the actuators could overheat and melt the actuator housing along with a portion of the adjacent inner door material. Once the overheating condition has occurred, the door actuator will no longer function.

This issue does not affect the 2014 through present KGDB and 2015 through present EXDP, as these models use the Tri/Mark CAN Bus Keyless Entry Module that is wired differently. Correction: Newmar Dealers will install a new low voltage disconnect module and wire harness.
